Religious Education – Glossaries of Terms

This glossary is based on: Religious Studies – A Glossary of Terms, GCSE which was published by the School Examination Council (SEC) in 1986. With the publication of the model syllabuses for religious education, and the work involving the faith communities in Britain, it was felt to be an appropriate time for its first revision. Since then many Agreed Syllabi have used it. For the Lewisham Agreed Syllabus 2018 additional sections on Baha'i and Humanism have been added and several other sections have been updated.

The glossary has been devised by the different faith and belief communities to:

- give guidance to teachers on key words and their meanings within religious traditions and Humanism
- try to reach some form of consensus on spellings. This is almost an impossible task, due to the problems of transliterating from one script to another, for example from Gurmukhi with 35 characters into the Roman script of 26 characters.

It is important for pupils to build up a working knowledge of key words and technical terms which are used within each religion, and which are therefore central to Religious Education.

Publishers take note of the work that went into the original glossary which had the full backing of religious traditions represented in the UK, so that all resources produced thereafter to support Religious Education, adopted the preferred form emphasised in bold within the documents.

Words printed in red are themselves main entries and can be cross-referenced within this glossary. Literal translations into English are printed in italics.

Acknowledgements are due to:

- all those who produced the original glossary
- the faith communities and organisations consulted on this revision

EXPLANATION

ﷺ - This Arabic ‘logo-type’ is composed of the words ‘Salla-llahu alaihi wa sallam’ - peace and blessings of Allah upon him. They are used by Muslims every time the Prophet Muhammad ﷺ is mentioned. Similar respect is accorded to the other Prophets. The Qur’an was revealed in Arabic, therefore Arabic is the language of Islam, Islamic worship, theology, ethics and jurisprudence. Islam is inextricably linked with the Arabic language despite the variety of languages spoken by the believers. For British teachers and pupils who have not encountered Islamic terms, this transliteration is a simplified version of that used by contemporary scholars. An apostrophe is used to indicate a pause. The reader will note that the words salah and zakah end in ‘h’ when they appear alone. When part of a phrase, these words are written with a ‘t’ at the end, eg Salat-ul-Zuhr, Zakat-ul-Fitr, as a guide to pronunciation.

EXPLANATION

Sikh terms are drawn from the Punjabi language, and the versions below are based upon that language. Many of these terms will also be found in books on Hinduism and Buddhism but with somewhat different meanings. As with all transliterations, there are problems which are difficult to resolve. This is particularly true when moving from the Gurmukhi script, which has an alphabet of 35 letters, to the Roman alphabet, which has only 26 letters.

Names of persons and places are only included in this list if variant forms are commonly used.
